

NEWSPAPERS IN EDUCATION

SCHOOL BUS

Each year, The Declaration provides newspapers to the local schools so that students can keep up with current events and find out more about the world around them through the "Newspapers in Education" (NIE) program. NIE is a nationally supported program throughout the United States that was started in the 1950's. NIE keeps pace with growing literacy needs and new technology.

Currently, The Declaration is sending 70 NIE papers per week to 11 classrooms in Grayson County.

This learning resource exists only because of the generous support of the community. Please join us in supporting the future of our community by continuing to provide this learning tool to our children in Grayson County.

NIE is a non-profit program and 100% of your donation is used to purchase newspapers for the classroom.

For every $1 that you donate, you will provide 4 newspapers for the NIE program.

The Declaration thanks you and the children thank you!

Check under the sofa cushions, on the floor of your car, even in the pockets of your dirty clothes!

We are looking for loose change; pennies, nickels and dimes and we're asking you to look for yours!

Bring your pennies into The News-Enterprise during the annual Newspaper In Education Penny Drive held during National NIE Week, March 5-9.

You can designate which school and classroom you would like them to go to and help that classroom win! Your pennies will help provide newspapers to area teachers throughout the entire school year.

Schools benefit by using the newspaper in many ways: it helps sharpen thinking skills, increases student's interest and motivation by providing study materials relevant to their lives, prepares students for active citizenship in their democracy, heightens teachers' interest in new teaching techniques, involves schools in the lives of the communities they serve, improves relationships with student's families and responds to the needs of local businesses as future employers.

Newspapers in Education Week:

Explore the world as it happens.

Newspapers are living textbooks to the world. Whether reading about yesterday's military skirmishes or tonight's play openings, you can learn much about the world through a newspaper. Imagine what a child could learn from newspapers used in the classroom.

March 3 - 7 is Newspapers in Education Week. Sponsored by the National Publishers Association and the International Reading Association, the event encourages teachers to incorporate newspapers into the classroom and educates the public on the benefits of using newspapers as teaching tools.

Children make up nearly 25% of our population and all of our future. Invest in your future. Open up a newspaper and help a child discover history as it happens.

Please help sponsor an NIE
(Newspapers in Education) classroom!
