CASE IN POINT

The Newspaper In Education program does work!

Students in Kim Case's Junior English class at Central Hardin High School followed the stories about the local tornadoes. "It was much more relevant than normal because the students could visibly see the devastation by looking out the classroom window" Ms. Case says. "They were very interested in all the coverage." Ms. Case receives a class set of The News-Enterprise each Friday and says her students look forward to it every week. This is the only time some of her students ever get to read the newspaper, they especially look forward to receiving them every week.
